

K E E C K E R

MARKETING INTERN

Keecker, a fast growing pioneer in consumer robotics, is looking for a Marketing Intern. Our team faces many challenges as this year is our launch year. You'll be part of our marketing team, our voice.

In this role, you'll have a direct impact on the marketing strategy and you will act operationally during Keecker's launch. Your job will be to demonstrate how Keecker solves the home technology complexity during one of the most exciting moments in the life of the company.

Main missions:

- participating in the launch preparation (relationship with media and creative agencies etc.)
- organizing and participating in our launch events
- offering a hands-on help to our team by managing Keecker's social media accounts, website content and blog
- customer support
- supporting the marketing team in negotiation and redaction of partnership documents

Skills:

Minimum

- full proficiency in English
- great adaptation skills
- good knowledge of social media platforms
- excellent communication and interpersonal skills
- creative thinker with an entrepreneurial spirit
- preparing a Bachelors or Masters degree

Preferred

- experience in global product launch
- up to date with latest products and technologies

Duration : 4 to 6 months

Benefits

Be part of a fast growing startup

Compensation depending on experience

50% of your Navigo subscription is on us

About us

Keecker solves the home technology complexity. It is the first robot that provides entertainment, security, communication and smart data for the entire home at once. A large screen, great sound, a camera, a powerful computer and environmental sensors, not in one particular location but in all rooms as it moves autonomously throughout the home.

Keecker has offices in Paris, France (10th) and Redwood city, CA.

Contact : iwanttowork@keecker.com